

We used to receive nuisance phone calls from solicitors at least 15 times a day. Most of the time it would not even be a real person on the other end, it would be a computer telling us that we had won something or that they had an important message for us. Since we signed onto the Indiana Attorney Generals no call list we have received maybe one call. After telling them that we were on the no call list we have not gotten another. Please do not over ride the Indiana law with a lower standard. Thank you.
